

We're doing night work in your area

As Sydney continues to grow, we are planning to renew the water main in the Northern Sydney area to ensure we can continue to provide access to drinking water now, and into the future.

We are considering reinstating the Ryde-Pymble trunk main, a drinking water pipeline that runs from the Ryde pumping station to the Sydney Water site in Wahroonga.

What can I expect?

As part of our early planning and design work, we are doing some investigation work to confirm the exact location and condition of the pipeline and assess the ground conditions.

The work involves setting up traffic controls, digging and opening test pits in footpaths and verges and concrete cutting the road and using a vacuum to excavate ground materials to identify underground services.

The work needs to be done at night to reduce the impact on daytime traffic in your area. See work locations on map over page.

Your water service won't be impacted during this investigation work.

What you need to know

We know our work can be disruptive, so we'll make every effort to reduce any impact this work may have on you.

Night work

Our investigation work will start Monday 15 April and will take approximately 9 nights to complete, weather and ground conditions permitting. Our night work hours are 7 pm to 5 am. No work is planned for Sundays or public holidays. Once we have finished our investigations, we may return for further surveys. We will write to you again to let you know before we start.

Noise

There will be some noise from the concrete cutting and vacuum excavation truck. We'll keep vehicle movements to a minimum and avoid unnecessary loud noises.

Traffic

Our machinery and trucks may temporarily take some space on the street.

There will be partial lane closures along the investigation locations, and we will need to use some parking spaces at times.

Our traffic controllers will work with you and help keep traffic flowing around our work areas while, keeping you safe.

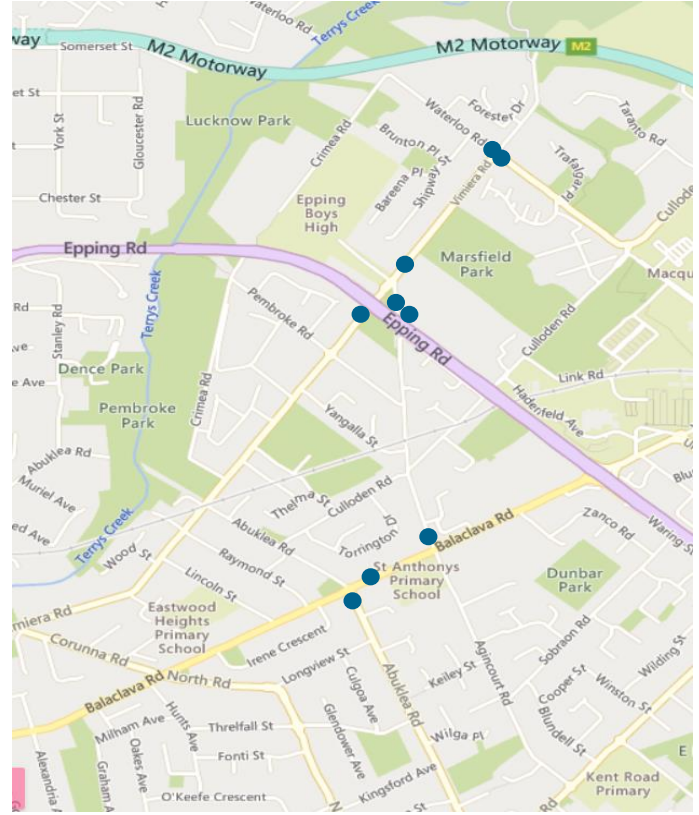

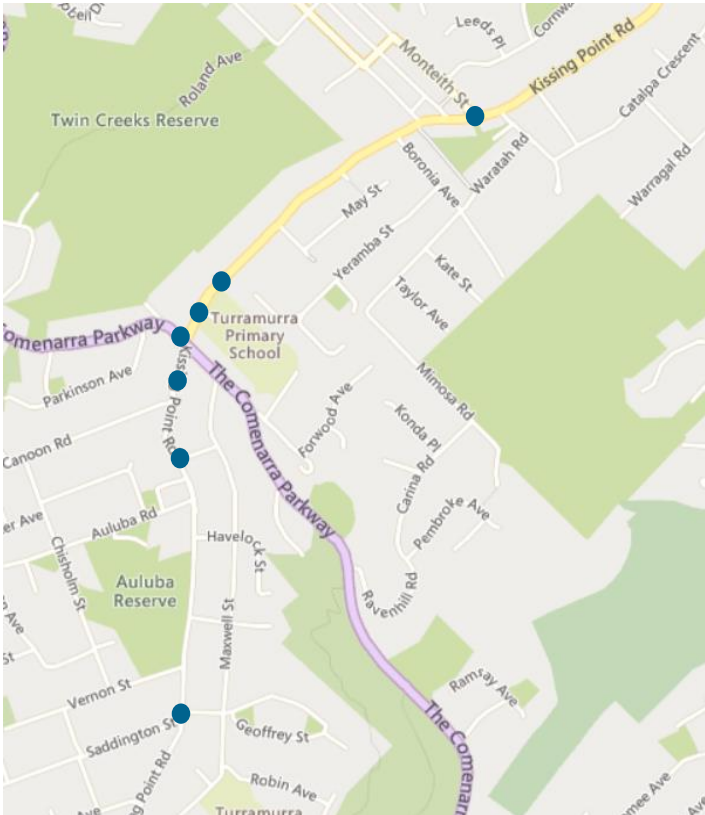

Where do I get more information?

If you would like to know more about these works, or need to make special arrangements with us, please contact our community engagement team by emailing RydePymblePipeline@sydneywater.com.au

For any urgent enquiries during the night work hours, please call the Site Supervisor, on 0421 477 451.

Thank you for your cooperation during this essential work.
